MEET ARISTOLATH—BUCKEYE'S METAL BOARD AND BATTEN

Patented in 2021, Aristolath embodies unprecedented practicality and high style for homeowners and contractors alike. With its independent batten design, Aristolath makes sense for anyone looking for board and batten that lasts. . . with flair.

INTRODUCING ARISTOLATH'S CREATORS

Step inside Buckeye's showroom in southern Ohio, and you will instantly feel the down-home Ohio warmth and sincerity of the Buckeye family. The Miller family, along with their employees, stockpile a wealth of metal expertise won from years of experience in the industry.

Our expertise begins with curiosity—a curiosity that energized us to fashion ground-breaking board and batten for visionary homeowners and contractors. That's how Aristolath came to be.

Ready for your discovery? We promise it'll be worth it.

REALIZE YOUR BOARD AND BATTEN DREAMS

Do you love the clean lines and timeless look of board and batten, but aren't ready to open the door to a host of wooden siding headaches? Rotting, warping, termites, and mildew. Not to mention the recommended resealing every five years.

No worries. You can opt out of wooden siding drama with Aristolath-Buckeye's 26-gauge metal siding that looks just like traditional wooden board and batten. No insects. No sealing. No mold. You'll enjoy the enduring aesthetic of board and batten for decades!

Dealing with an unreliable supplier is like throwing a wrecking ball at your reputation as a contractor.

At Buckeye, we treat your project like it's ours. Stocked with years of metal experience, we offer a quick turnaround and short delivery lead times. You can depend on us for precise order fills.

Your customers will love the versatility of Aristolath. Both practical and stylish, Aristolath will shine in your options repertoire. We'll roll it on-site for a scratch-free presentation. Keep the entire bundle—fasteners, insulation, trim—stacked at the job site for handy access.

We've been rolling metal for 18 years.
We're here for you through thick and thin.

ARISTOLATH SPEAKS.

Hello, I'm Aristolath. Out of the box, cutting-edge? That's me.

With my paradigm-shifting, patented snap-on batten, you get ingenious possibilities. I'll save you money (and time) compared to concrete or wood. I roll out mostly on-site from a roll forming machine. That means I come scratch-free. And my measurements? Absolutely precise!

WHAT THIS MEANS

Install intuitively.

Aristolath is user-friendly. Whether you're a hobby DIYer or a serious contractor, Aristolath makes your project fun. Individual panels overlap and connect by a nailing strip that's snapped snugly underneath the batten. This prevents rust and unsightly nail holes.

Replace easily.

Maintenance doesn't have to give you a migraine. If scratches or dents show up, you can easily replace that one board. All you need to do is...

1. Snap off the batten.
2. Unscrew the fasteners.
3. Take out the old panel.
4. Pop in the new panel.
5. Re-screw the fasteners.
6. Snap on the batten again.

Simple and beautiful—A board and batten philosophy that translates into premium products that anyone can use. Experience the innovation.

MAKE YOUR HOME OUTSTANDING!

Strength you can lean on. When the wind's howling around your home, you shouldn't have to worry whether your house can handle it. Metal siding ranks near the top of long-lasting and tough siding profiles. When the next windstorm blows in, be prepared. Aristolath can stand up to the blasts.

HOW IT WORKS

1. Tell us what you need.

Small project? Pick up a kit that you custom-ordered. Trim, fasteners, all you need to be supplied. Contractor enterprise? We hash out the details together and make a delivery plan.

2. Ready? Here We Come.

Forget bulky hauling and the stress of supply runs in the face of looming deadlines. We bring your 26-gauge metal onto your job site, all curled up on a large coil on our mobile forming rig.

3. On-the-spot manufacturing

We punch in the profile you ordered, the machine rolls out the panels, and we stack them right on the job site with everything else you need to wrap up your project.

SIDING THAT STAYS FRESH

If you're saying, "Hmm, but what about the possibility of dents, dings, and scratches to this beautiful board and batten?" Here's what we do to guard against scuffing and denting.

Rolled right on-site

Formed on-site with a roll forming machine, your Aristolath won't have shipping burn or other dents and scratches. Your siding will truly be new at the get-go.

26-gauge robustness

Aristolath is 26-gauge. This thicker, stronger gauge helps prevent excessive denting. It fights back for you against fierce weather.

Convenient replacement

Even so, life happens. Dents and scratches may mar a piece of your wall. That's where Aristolath's snap-off and snap-out design saves you money, time, and annoyance.

STYLE IT HOW YOU DREAM IT

Stunning as an accent

Do you feel uncertain about so many lines running down your house? Afraid of the design getting too busy? Try a one-wall or gable accent section. This perfect pinch of spice will dazzle passersby and increase the value of your home.

Inner, not just outer beauty

An interior Aristolath accent wall pops in just the right bit of sensation to make your room sing. And if you dare, try a catchy herringbone design. Or dream up your original, one-of-a-kind design. You won't regret giving Aristolath a swing.

A bold new look

Embrace a trend. Two-tone your home. With Aristolath's independent batten, you can choose your two favorite complementary colors, one for the batten and one for the board. The result? An eye-catching aesthetic that you'll admire for years to come.

Aristolath—the only batten-independent metal siding in the region. Practical. Stylish. Resilient.

Beauty that Lasts

Our panels arrive finished with AkzoNobel's premium CERAM-A-STAR 1050 coating and a paint warranty that clocks in at forty years!

Choose from our myriad color choices, including extensive crinkle options!

THE ORDERING SCOOP

Small project? Order a kit to get it delivered or swing by and pick it up.

Big project? Make an appointment, and we'll bring our roll formers and accessories straight to your job. Unlimited efficiency, unending smiles.
